DOCUMENTS TO BE CARRIED IN A MOTOR VEHICLE

- Driver's Licence. (In the case of EU citizens from other EU countries, they can continue to use the drivers licence from their own country (although I would strongly recommend that they change to a Spanish licence for various reasons).
- A Resident's Certificate (where applicable) and proof of address here in Spain. (Non-residents will be obliged to pay any fines immediately, in cash!).
- "Permiso de Circulación" (the 'grey coloured booklet') - registration document.
- The "ITV" (MoT) document showing records of vehicle's tests and the window sticker.
- Vehicle insurance document and receipt of payment. (an interesting point here is that through a EU agreement, vehicles which are registered in another EU country which are not insured - if they are involved in an accident, the other party will be covered through this agreement).

Basically, documents required to be carried in a vehicle relate to the identity of the driver and address, ability to drive (Drivers Licence), and the documents which relate to the vehicle (ID of vehicle, ITV and insurance).

EQUIPMENT TO BE CARRIED

- 2 x reflective triangles.
- 2 x reflective jackets
- One set of replacement light bulbs. (Whilst this law is actually still in place, it is most unlikely that any police offer would ask for these or issue a fine as they recognise that these days, motor vehicles are so sophisticated that most drivers would not be able to change a light bulb anyway)."
